JUDGE SAYS LEWIS ADMITTED CONTEMPT BY CALLING STRIKE

HOLIDAY CRIME KEEPS POLICE BUSY IN CITY

Woman Routs Purse Snatchers Who Struck Her on Head; Burglaries Probed.

A series of purse snatchings, petty thefts, and burglaries kept Mansfield police busy over the Thanksgiving holiday, officers' reports showed today.

One woman routed two snatchers on Glessner avenue last night while thieves dropped a purse containing $130 in cash after snatching it from a second woman on East First street, police were told.

Two men who grabbed a purse from Mrs. Catherine Carr, 142 East First street, in front of her home last night, took her coin purse containing $1.50, but in fleeing, dropped a purse which she said held $130 in cash.

Miss Zada Au, 176 Benton street, told police two men accosted her in the 200 block of Glessner avenue about 10 p. m. yesterday.

Cut on Head.

She said one of the men struck her, but the pair fled without taking her purse when she screamed. Miss Au was treated at General hospital for a two-inch scalp cut.

Willie Wilson, 219½ North Diamond street, told police a man struck him on the head with a baseball bat yesterday afternoon and robbed him of $150.

He said the attack occurred about 3 p. m. at the rear of 274 North Franklin avenue.

A Park avenue east resident told police vandals threw a stone through a window at 268½ Park avenue east.

Mrs. William Brown, Mansfield R. D. 2, told officers that a Navajo blanket valued at $5 was taken from her car when it was parked on North Diamond street, and a bicycle valued at $40, belonging to her son, was stolen at Grace street and Ashland road.

Burglars broke into the Dillon service station at 157 East Second street Wednesday night after smashing a window. Herbert Dillon, operator, told police that nothing was missing.

Police investigated a report of someone shooting a revolver at the rear of 261½ North Main street at 10:30 p. m. Wednesday. Officers were unable to locate anyone.

MAN, 52, DIES OF EXPOSURE

Roger Woods Cowen, 52, of rear 94 East Sixth street, was found dead in a garage on Lundy's Lane at 4:30 p. m. Thursday by Arthur West, who notified Mansfield police. Death was due to exposure, according to Dr. D. C. Lavender, acting county coroner.

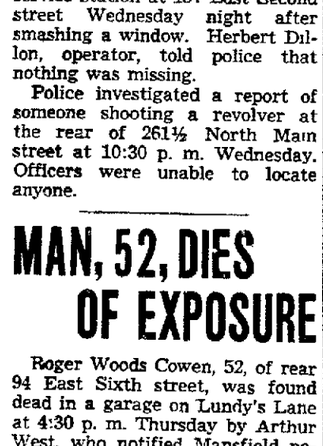
West, who lives at 274 North Franklin avenue, told police that he had passed the garage on Lundy's Lane at 7:30 a. m. and saw Cowen lying down but thought he was asleep. When he returned at 4:30 p. m. and Cowen was still there, he called Mansfield police.

The body was removed to the Wolford funeral home.

Mr. Cowen was born in Green township, Ashland county Sept. 18, 1894, and had worked with the Voegele Coal company in Mansfield for three years. He has no known survivors.

Services will be held at the Wolford funeral home Saturday at 2 p. m. with burial in Perrysville cemetery.

Lundy's Lane runs east off of North Main street, near Sixth street.



Extreme Caution By Autoists Urged

A plea to Mansfield motorists "to be extremely watchful" in the dark, murky hours of winter's shorter days came today from Harry Dailey, chairman of the Mansfield Safety Council.

"School children are now enroute to or from school in dark, murky hours as the days become shorter," Dailey said in a statement.

"Keep your windshield clean, windows free from frost or moisture, and use your driving lights during the twilight hours. While your parking lights may mark your car so it can be seen, they cannot reveal a child in dark clothing ahead of you."

PARK AVENUE NEIGHBORS SUE TO CLOSE YARD

Coal Company Denies it Constitutes Nuisance.

A hearing to dissolve a court order preventing operation of a coal yard at 1062 Park avenue west on the contention it is a nuisance in a residential area was being heard in common pleas court today.

Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch had ordered the yard to cease operations Oct. 31 after 13 property owners in the neighborhood filed suit claiming the operations damaged and interferred with their use of their own properties.

The defendants, Bernard F. and Eleanor Spence, of the B. F. Spence Coal company, in their denial of the allegations, pointed out that the "unpleasant noises and vibrations" complained of had been present in the neighborhood for nearly 100 years because of the nearness of the B. and O. railroad tracks.

Attys. Marshall C. Moore and John L. Catlett represent Harvey Bowman, 1026 Park avenue west; G. H. Schrack, 1060 Park avenue west, and 10 other neighborhood property owners.

In his preliminary arguments on the motion to dissolve the restraining order, Moore told the court that the plaintiffs, in view of the current nation-wide coal strike, would consent to a modification of the order so as to permit delivery of coal already in the yard.

Representing the defendants are Attys. John C. O'Donnell and James V. Will.

Girl, 17, Found Asphyxiated By Bed Pillows

ASHLAND—Services for Audrey Mary Poland, 17, found dead in bed at her home, Ashland, R. D. 1, Wednesday, were to be held at 2:30 p. m. today at the Heyl funeral home with burial in Ashland cemetery

Dr. A. D. Lewis, Jeromesville, Ashland county coroner, rendered a verdict of "death by asphyxiation following a convulsion. The girl was found with her head buried between two pillows.

Miss Poland, a sophomore at Ashland high school, was born in Ashland and was a member of the Emmanuel Evangelical Sunday school and 4-H club. She leaves her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Poland; three brothers, Arnold, Arthur and Norman and a sister, Betty, all at home.

The weatherman said it would be windy and colder tonight, but sunny skies tomorrow again will send temperatures upward. Slowly rising temperatures is the forecast for the weekend—November's last.

93 JAPS EXECUTED

SAN FRANCISCO—(U.P.)—Australian army headquarters in Melbourne announced that 93 Japanese war criminals have been executed since war trials began at Rabaul, New Britain island, radio Australia reported today. Eighty three have been hanged and 10 shot.

AREA ESCAPES THANKSGIVING TRAFFIC TOLL

No One Reported Injured In Richland Area; 11 Violent Deaths Reported In Ohio.

Richland countians had reason to recount their blessings again today as one of the quietest Thanksgivings in recent years passed without a traffic death or injury in the area.

Traffic accidents cost at least 66 lives in the nation and six in Ohio, less than the average week-end toll, press dispatches said today.

Ohio, however, had five other violent deaths, three in Thanksgiving day hunting accidents.

Four of the six traffic fatalities were in the Miami valley area.

Olie Wilhoite, 51, Dayton, was killed when a New York Central train hit his car near Dayton and Maurice F. Frawley, 80, also of Dayton, died of injuries suffered when he was hit by a car.

Harold Hattery, 55, an Eaton teacher, and Pvt. Robert Putt, 30, of Wright Field, were killed in a two car crash near Van Wert.

* * *

Explosion Fatal.

At Findlay Mrs. Ferdinand Borgelt, 48, died in a hospital of Burns suffered when a stove fire she was starting with kerosene exploded.

A visitor at Gallmade, Howard Gross, 46, of New Castle, Pa., choked to death last night on a chicken bone. He was dead on arrival at City hospital.

Thanksgiving day hunting accidents accounted for three deaths. Charles Fox, 56, of Whitehouse, was shot through the back with a 12-gauge double-barreled shot gun as he was apparently trying to climb a fence.

Clarence Payne, 43, of London, was accidentally shot by his son, Robert, 17, while on a hunting trip in Clark county, and seven-year-old William Bright was shot through the back while playing a game of "sheriff" with his companion, Robert Pugh, also 17, who was absolved from blame by Coroner Charles N. Gaskil of Jackson county.

AAF SQUADRON ELECTS OFFICERS

James McConnell and Robert McClurg were announced today as operations officers in charge of the local unit of the Richland county squadron of the Air Force association.

They were elected Wednesday night at a meeting of the officers and advisory council of the squadron at McConnell's home. The meeting was called to further plans for the continued flying of Army Air Force airplanes under the plans of the U. S. air force reserve program.

AT-6 planes will continue to be flown here from Cleveland for the use of army air force pilots in this area who are qualified to fly them. Later on in the program, AT-11's and P-51's are to be included in the course.

Any army air force pilots who hold reserve commissions are eligible for this program which gives them an opportunity to maintain their proficiency at flying under direct government instruction.

Uncle Sam Forecasts More Beef In 1947 For Americans Than Any Year Since '37

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—The agriculture department said today the average American probably will eat more beef and veal in 1947 than during any year in the last 37.

It said, however, that pork production likely will be somewhat smaller than this year because of last spring's small pig crop. This will mean less bacon and ham next spring and summer.

Lamb and mutton also will be scarcer. The 1946 lamb crop was seven per cent smaller than in 1945 and fewer lambs will be grain-fattened this winter for market next spring.

The department said near-record cattle numbers will permit beef and veal production next year close to the all-time record high of 84 pounds per person set in 1945.

In 1945, however, large quantities of meat were being sent overseas to the armed forces and U. S. civilians ate an average of about 70 pounds per person.

Next year, with exports cut to a mere trickle and the army and navy taking relatively small amounts of meat, per capita civilian supplies probably will top 70 pounds. The last time Americans could average that much beef and veal was in 1909.

The department said both pork and beef prices should decline "moderately" from present high levels when meat production reaches its seasonal peak early this winter.

Pork prices may rise again in the spring as slaughter slumps seasonally. Prices probably will continue relatively high until the spring and summer of 1948 when next spring's pig crop reaches market.

Once beef prices break, they are expected to remain down because of heavy marketings on grain-fed animals.

Range cattle have been moving into corn belt feed lots in record numbers since June. Cattle numbers now are large enough to permit a near-record cattle and calf slaughter without reducing the nation's livestock population.

Because of a record corn crop and favorable pork prices, the 1947 spring pig crop is expected to be the largest since the record crop of 1943. But this will not mean larger pork supplies until the spring and summer of 1948.

WANTS HIGH TARIFF

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — Sen. Edward V. Robertson, (R., Wyo.), today advocated increasing the tariff on wool to protect domestic growers. He said he would ask senate Republican leaders to sanction introduction of legislation in the new congress to raise the wool tariff about 16-cents a pound.

BYRD EXPEDITION TO SAIL MONDAY

NORFOLK, Va.—(U.P.)—Old and new extremes in modes of polar transportation—sled dogs and airplanes—are being loaded here aboard ships of the Byrd expedition, which will sail Monday for the antarctic.

Aboard the group command ship, Mt. Olympus, Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd's flagship, are 27 huskies, plus five pups, whelped since the sled dogs were rounded up in Labrador, Quebec and New England

Three patrol bombers, two helicopters and a scout observation plane have been loaded aboard the seaplane tender Pine Island and one helicopter and one Gruman amphibian aboard the coast guard icebreaker North Wind. Other ships sailing from Norfolk are the destroyer Brownson and the oiler Canisteo.

Also being loaded on the ships are large quantities of scientific and photographic equipment and sufficient foodstuffs to last eight months.

Eight thousand pounds of butter, enough for four months are included after which canned butter will be eaten.

Rev. Sheriff Serves Church 25 Years

REV. CHARLES F. SHERIFF

Rev. Charles F. Sheriff, who has been a pastor in Mansfield longer than any other minister now serving a church in the city, will be honored Sunday for his quarter century of service at the St. Matthew's Lutheran church.

Playing an important role in the anniversary program will be Atty. William F. Voegele, who has been a member of the church council for 30 years. His service record is the longest of any of the council members.

Others on the council are L. J. Meeker, G. Lyman Moore, Charles Woods, Karl Shambaugh, Edward Schmid, Kenneth Pendleton, Carlton Overmyer, Merle Pittinger and Ralph Worley.

In commemoration of the anniversary, Rev. Sheriff will preach on the subject, "The Silver Lining." The choir will present appropriate numbers.

Rev. Sheriff came to Mansfield Dec. 1, 1921, from Christ's Lutheran church in Cambridge, where he had served for three years. He was graduated from Wittenberg college and from Hamma Divinity school in 1915.

During his ministry here, he has received 1,259 adults into membership and baptized 553. He has conducted 296 funerals and performed 211 marriages. The confirmed membership of the church today is 600 members.

Rev. Sheriff, a native of Mansfield, is the son of Jacob and the late Sarah Ellen Sheriff. He entered the ministry from the First English Lutheran church.

St. Matthew's church has prepared a booklet of the important events that have taken place during the past 25 years. This booklet will be published in appropriate form for church members as souvenirs of the occasion.

WILLIAM F. VOEGELE

Jurist Firmly Denies Motion To Halt Trial

Government Counsel Prepares to Put First Witness on Stand Against Leader of Striking Miners.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—John L. Lewis today lost his fight to avoid trial on a contempt citation stemming from his refusal to obey a court order to head off the soft coal strike.

Federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough denied the mine leader's motion to throw the case out of court after remarking that Lewis in effect had "pleaded guilty" to contempt.

This was promptly challenged by one of Lewis' lawyers, T. C. Townsend, who said:

"He hasn't entered any plea of guilty, your honor."

After some argument over legal technicalities, the judge ruled, firmly:

"The motion to discharge and vacate the motion is overruled."

He then called a five-minute recess. After the recess, court was adjourned until 2:30 p. m. (EST). Chief government Counsel John F. Sonnett announced the government was ready to present its first witness against Lewis—Navy Captain N. H. Collisson, federal coal mines administrator.

In his statement leading up to dismissal of the UMW motion, Goldsborough declared the court had a right to enjoin "a labor union which was about to do something against the good of the public and the union itself."

The Norris-La Guardia Act did not and does not apply, and the court has the same rights as it had prior to passage of the Norris-La Guardia Act," he declared.

Today's session opened with a renewed defense attempt to win with dismissal of the contempt action against Lewis, who as before, sat with jaw upthrust, rarely speaking to his 10-man legal battery.

* * *

Claims Criminal Action.

Through Attorney Edmund Burke, Lewis claimed the government's case actually is a criminal action instead of a civil proceeding, as designated, and therefore should be thrown out.

On this argument, too, the judge interrupted to say:

"The restraining order was not issued for the purpose of punishing a contempt of the Smith-Connally Act, (which forbids strikes against the government), but for the purpose of letting the court decide whether the coal contract with the government could be terminated."

"Then it is not a punitive proseeding, sir?" Burke inquired.

"It is exactly what I said it was," Goldsborough declared.

He also told Burke:

"If you know the exact difference between a civil and a criminal contempt, you are the only person in the United States who does."

Assistant Attorney General John F. Sonnett, chief government counsel, then announced:

"We are prepared to meet the requirements for both a civil and criminal contempt action."

MOVING DAY AGAIN FOR HIGHWAY PATROL

State highway patrolmen moved again today—this time into "tailor-made" quarters approximately 100 yards from the George Satterlee home on Ashland road into which they moved on Oct. 1.

The new "home" of the patrol was constructed by Satterlee according to the specifications of the officers. The 24-by-36 foot frame building is located on the Satterlee property, just northwest of the private residence.

A temporary residence was set up by the patrol in the Satterlee home almost two months ago, when the officers were forced to move from their old quarters two miles nearer the city on the highway.

The nonogenarian celebrated his birthday yesterday by taking his first airplane ride at the neighboring Willoughby airport. The pilot of the craft was his granddaughter, Pat Cadle, 25.

BIG 4 SEEKING AGREEMENT ON FIVE TREATIES

Solution of Trieste Issue Pleases Ministers.

NEW YORK—(INS)—The council of Foreign Ministers, jubilant after solving the hotly contested Trieste issue and within sight of an accord on the Danube, will meet for the 21st time in New York today to hasten agreement on all five treaties.

The sore point facing the Big Four at their 4 p. m. gathering in the Waldorf Towers will be reparations demanded of economically strained Italy and of a Bulgaria favored by Russia and Yugoslavia.

Council members predict a stormy meeting, with America and Britain anxious to shield Italian economy against assessments exceeding the country's capacity to pay without causing economic collapse. Soviet Russia claims $100 million, Greece and Yugoslavia $100 million each and Ethiopia $25 million.

The Paris conference voted approval for those amounts, although Yugoslavia in particular voiced demands for more. Soviet Foreign Secretary Molotov took the attitude that Russia was being generous with Italy in letting her off easy. Britain and the United States renounced all reparations claims.

The Paris conference voted that Bulgaria pay $65 million each to Greece and Yugoslavia, although the latter championed the friendly Sofia regime as having been an "ally" and therefore not assessable in reparations. The Yugoslavs offered to settle for $16 million if Greece's share was cut down.

COAL SHORTAGE PINCH HURTING

PITTSBURGH —(INS)— Unemployment continued to sweep across the nation today in the wake of the paralyzing mine shutdown as emergency users of soft coal began making demands upon the reserve supply.

Hundreds of schools were closed. Similar action is planned by others next week while still others are operating part time.

New layoffs were reported in the Youngstown steel industry. At least 10,000 were given furlough orders in the larger mills as more furnaces were taken out of production.

Three hundred Pennsylvania railroad men were temporarily dropped from payrolls in Johnstown, Pa., over the Thanksgiving holiday.

Thousands of steelworkers are slated for early layoffs next week when finishing operations are completed. The Tri-State Industrial association, composed of 131 fabricators and steel dependent firms, plans to reduce operations and cut employment 100,000 men unless the coal strike ends.

Solid Fuels Administration reported 37,000,000 tons of coal above the ground were frozen when the miners contract was terminated at midnight November 20 Since then, SFA reported, the government set aside a two-day supply for essential users, leaving only an estimated 27-day stockpile.

However, government coal experts indicated that the remaining reserve, although considered near the "danger" point, can be stretched by more production cuts, dimouts and other stiff conservation orders.

Army-Navy Contest Tops Card

SPORTS ROUND UP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK —(AP)— A man who is close to the center of minor league baseball affairs, but not close enough to say for sure whether the reports that Judge W. G. Bramham will retire are true, claims that so many successors to the judge already have been "nominated" that Kilroy probably will turn up at Los Angeles next week and get into the picture. "He might not be a bad dark horse," our informant adds. . . . Acting on the theory that another unofficial nomination won't hurt, this corner offers the name of Jack Zeller, former general manager of the Tigers, for consideration if he is available. . . . Zeller surely knows all the angles of baseball and his proposal to abolish farm systems should make him the logical candidate of the "independents" who don't want the minors ruled by the major leagues. . . . One certainty is that the remaining unattached clubs will have to get behind one man or in the confusion the farm systems will have their own way.

2 Cage Games On NO Sked

SHELBY—Because of the closing of the Northern Ohio league schools today and yesterday for the annual two-day Thanksgiving vacation, only two league cage teams, Bellevue and Willard, have games scheduled over the weekend.

The Bellevue quintet will entertain Bowling Green tonight, while Willard plays host to Tiffin Columbian on Saturday night.

The Shelby Whippets, losers of their opening game to Fostoria, 29 to 26, will not resume play until next Friday night, Dec. 6, at Mansfield Madison.

Other league schools playing next week include Tuesday, Bellevue at Lorain; and Friday, Bucyrus at Tiffin Columbian, Galion at Findlay, Willard at Norwalk and Crestline at Upper Sandusky.

Yanks Sign Keller, DiMaggio, Henrich

NEW YORK —(AP)— The New York Yankees' great outfield trio of Joe DiMaggio, Charlie Keller and Tommy Henrich, which led the Yankees to three straight pennants from 1941-'43 before it was broken up by Uncle Sam, headed a list of 14 Yank players who have signed contracts for the 1947 season.

In making the announcement yesterday, President Larry MacPhail disclosed that he had sent out "about 25 contracts" and that no player has been asked to take a cut from last year's salary. No salary figures were announced.

GEORGIA GIVEN EDGE AGAINST GEORGIA TECH

NEW YORK—(INS)—Tomorrow's games will mark not only the season's finale for college football, outside of a few scattered contests and the post-season games, but also the farewell to gridiron arms for the greatest pair of touchdown twins the sport ever has known.

When Army and Navy square off at Philadelphia before a sell-out crowd of 103,000, Glenn Davis, Doc Blanchard and their mates who have racked up 26 wins, one tie and no defeats in three brilliant years, will make their final appearance as a unit. And for Davis, Blanchard and some of the others, it will be the final game of their careers.

Army, at full strength, is favored to win by five touchdowns, and a Navy triumph would be regarded as almost the upset of the century. Yet Navy, despite its seven straight setbacks, is amazingly confident of victory.

Georgia, unbeaten and untied and headed for the Sugar Bowl, nevertheless could be tripped up by a dangerous Georgia Tech eleven, the seven-point underdog.

UCLA, also unbeaten and untied as it looks ahead to its scheduled Rose Bowl appearance, is a 26-point choice over Nebraska.

Notre Dame, unbeaten but tied by Army, is a 24-point favorite over a Southern California eleven which gave UCLA a tough battle last week.

In other games, Mississippi State is favored over Alabama by seven points, Rice over Baylor by 23, Florida over Auburn by six, Boston College over Holy Cross by 13, North Carolina U over Virginia by 19, Oklahoma over Oklahoma A. Q M. by 13, and Tennessee over Vanderbilt by seven.

Oregon State is rated over Washington by three points, SMU over TCU by six, LSU over Tulane by 14, and Michigan over Washington State by five.

Traditional rivalry will level the odds in many of these games, just as it did yesterday. Although Utah State college's victory over Utah university was the lone upset, practically all other games were bitterly fought.

Form went out the window as Cornell held the powerful Penn players to a 26 to 20 margin and almost beat them with a great rally in the final period. Kansas barely staved off Missouri, 20 to 19, to clinch a tie with Oklahoma for the Big Six title.

In another tight squeeze, Tulsa edged Arkansas, 14 to 13. Colgate managed to beat Brown, 20 to 14.

Only two teams had a relatively easy time of it. Wake Forest swamped South Carolina, 35 to 0, and Texas, playing its last game under Coach Dana X. Bible, trounced Texas A. & M. 24 to 7.

Tickets for the Mansfield Madison football banquet can be reserved by calling the high school, Coach Jeff DeHaven announced today.

The banquet is scheduled for Saturday, December 7 at Madison with Carroll C. Widdoes, Ohio State assistant coach, as guest speaker. Widdoes directed the Buck gridders in 1944 and '45, winning 16 of 18 games. The '44 club was unbeaten.

Charles Freehafer will act as master of ceremonies. The banquet is being sponsored by the Madison Booster club. The club has called a meeting for tonight at 7 o'clock at the home of Curt Glenn, Lincoln Heights.

INS Picks All-Southwest Sectional Football Team

DALLAS, Tex.—(INS)—A big, bruising line and a smart, swift backfield today characterized International News Service's All-Southwest sectional football team for 1946.

Honors were evenly divided among six of the seven Southwest conference members and three other major schools included in the area. Only Arkansas and Texas Tech landed more than one man on the first team, each placing two in voting by coaches and experts throughout the region.

Four of the first team selections were of landslide proportions. Bobby Layne of Texas and Weldon Humble of Rice were unanimous choices at back and guard, respectively. End Neill Armstrong of Oklahoma A. & M. and Back Clyde LeForce of Tulsa also received strong support.

One absentee deserves a word of explanation. Bob Fenimore, All-American Oklahoma Aggies star, was just as good as ever—but was not included on the team because of injuries which kept him sidelines most of the season.

Ben Hogan Behind In Orlando Open

ORLANDO, Fla.—(AP)—Defending Champion Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., and other big guns of the winter golfing circuit lagged far behind today as second round play began in the $10,000 Orlando Open over the tricky Dubsdread course.

The lead was shared by Johnny Revolta of Evanston, Ill., former PGA national champion, and Johnny Palmer of Badin, N. C., who battled brisk crosswinds to card six under par 65's in the first round yesterday.

Hershey Bears Take Lead In American Hockey Loop

Boasting a five game winning streak, the high flying Hershey Bears are showing signs of taking a commanding lead in the Eastern division of the American Hockey league.

The Bears, who increased their first place margin over the New Haven Ramblers to four points by trouncing the Providence Reds, 10-2 last night while the Ramblers battled the Indianapolis Capitals to a 2-2 tie, have virtually paced their division or been deadlocked for the top rung since the season started.

NAVY TO TRY LAND PLANES

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — The navy hopes to make aviation history by flying normally land-based transport planes from the deck of an aircraft carrier during Rear Adm. Richard E. Byrd's forthcoming Antarctic expedition.

Such planes never have been borne aloft from a carrier, although B-25 medium bombers took off from the carrier Hornet in the 1942 raid on Tokyo.

The planes to be used in the unprecedented experiment are twin-engine transports the size of a commercial airliner and are known commercially as DC-3's, the navy said.

Six of them will be carried aboard the aircraft carrier Philippines Sea to a point about 100 miles off the Ross ice shelf and shot aloft with the aid of Jato-jet power bottles attached to their wings.

The planes' land base will be Little America where landing strips are being prepared for them. They will be used for long reconnaissance and photographic missions.

The navy said the planes are being readied at Quonset Point, R. I., naval air station.

The Philippines Sea will leave Norfolk, Va., about Jan. 1. Other ships in Byrd's task force are to leave Norfolk and San Diego, Calif., next Monday.

SENATORS CHARGE EFFORT TO CONCEAL

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The four Republican members of the Senate War Investigating committee have charged that the administration is "seeking desperately to conceal something wrong with the administration of occupied areas" in Germany and Austria.

The four said they reached that conclusion as a result of the straight six-to-four party vote which cancelled a proposed committee investigation of conditions in the occupied zones.

The statement was signed by Senators Brewster (R-Maine), Ball (R-Minn.), Ferguson (R-Mich.) and Knowland (R-Calif).

Summons Nailed To Lewis' Door

ALEXANDRIA, Va. —(AP)—A Virginia process server Wednesday nailed a state summons on the front door of John L. Lewis' home after failing in attempts to serve the United Mine Workers president personally.

The summons, directing Lewis to appear before the Virginia State Corporation commission in an action relating to UMW memberships in this state, was not immediately taken in.

At the moment, Lewis was in a Washington court room about eight miles away defending himself against a federal district court citation for contempt in connection with the current soft coal work stoppage.

The summons was nailed to the door.

Army Commissions Planned for 25,000

With a dozen or so inquiries having reached his office concerning the army's program of commissioning 25,000 more officers in the Regular Army, M/Sgt. Daniel DeSalvo said today that each applicant should have a good chance for a commission.

"There have only been 26,000 applications for Regular Army commissions to date," DeSalvo said, "and as the army wants 25,000 officers and will screen the applications thoroughly, every applicant should have a good chance if he applies soon."

PILES ARE NEVER MILD

DANGER IN NEGLECT

No one should ever think of piles (hemorrhoids as a "mild" disorder.

Although they may seem a "mild" ailment, especially when not giving pain or inconvenience, piles are in fact tumor formations without tendency to heal themselves, instead, they are likely, if neglected, to keep increasing in size, involving more and more of the rectal area.

Even a so-called "mild" case may be expected to undermine one's health, by inviting predisposing to or aggravating other ailments, such as: indigestion, biliousness, stomach trouble, constipation, headaches, pain in the back and down the legs, secondary anemia with its run-down tired feeling and general nervous irritability.

Removal of piles is the only permanent relief — written guarantee. My method produces little or no discomfort, does not require the use of knife or drugs, and seldom is the patient required to lose any time from work or other duties.

Bedtime Stories

—By Thornton W. Burgess

None knows the truth of that saying better than does Old Mother Nature. There are many things folks know they should be and are thankful for. There are quite as many, perhaps, of which they are unaware. It is so with everybody everywhere. No one ever yet has been able to count all his blessings.

Striped Chipmunk had celebrated Thanksgiving Day without knowing it just by being thankful for many things, one of which was that he could sleep through the coming winter and so have nothing to worry about. He might wake up on a warm day. He might do it two or three times during the winter. If he did, and was hungry, he would not have to go outside to look for something to eat. He had well filled storerooms down under ground near his snug bedroom. This was just one of many things for which he had been thankful. Last of all, as he had curled up in his bed, he had murmured, "I'm glad I'm a Chipmunk, not some one else," closed his eyes and gone to sleep.

Now, the day after Thanksgiving, he was sound asleep. In the night the weather turned cold and he would stay sound asleep for a long time. Being asleep he could know of nothing that was happening, even though it might be right inside his home deep in the ground, and certainly nothing of anything happening outside. It was well that this was so. There was a visitor to the old stone wall whose presence, had Striped Chipmunk known of it, would have so frightened him that he would not have been able to close his eyes again for a long time. He would have been afraid to go to sleep. It was Shadow the Weasel.

It was long since Shadow had visited the old stone wall. He is long and slim, but such a little fellow that to one who didn't know him it would be hard to believe that anyone bigger than a small Mouse need fear him. Yes, sir, that is the way it would seem. Yet Striped Chipmunk, would far rather have great big Buster Bear pulling part the old wall in search of him than to have Shadow the Weasel even in the neighborhood of the old wall.

"I wonder if Striped Chipmunk is still living hereabouts. I should be able to find him if he is. He probably is asleep, but that won't make any difference. It should be all the easier to get him. All I need to do is to find the doorway to his home. Where he can go I can go. That is one advantage of being small. I never envy my big cousins, Jimmy Skunk and Little Joe Otter and Spite the Marten and Pekan the Fisher. No sir, I never envy any of them anywhere on land they can go I can go, but they can't go where I can go. They all like Mice but none of them can follow one into holes as I can. As for Striped Chipmunk, where he can go I can go. I hope he is somewhere in under this old wall," thought Shadow as he jumped from stone to stone, disappeared in openings between the stones, and popped out again.

While he was doing this another visitor reached the old stone wall. It was Black Pussy from Farmer Brown's house. Almost every day through the summer he had paid the old wall a visit, vainly hoping he might catch Striped Chipmunk. He knew all the favorite stones of the little Squirrel, the ones he liked best to sit on, but somehow he never had succeeded in creeping up to or waiting near the right one. Always Striped Chipmunk used another stone and from it scolded Black Pussy and teased him until he had given up in disgust and gone away.

This time when he saw a small person popping in and out of the old wall he took it for granted that it was Striped Chipmunk. He crept in among the bushes and crouched close to the old wall. Shadow was coming straight toward him. He disappeared in a hole a few feet away and almost at once popped out of another close by. Black Pussy sprang. He was quick, but Shadow was quicker. He dodged, ran back a little, turned, sat up, and spat angrily at Black Pussy. Finally he turned and ran, bounding from stone to stone along the old wall.

MARKET MAKES MODEST GAINS

NEW YORK—(INS—A further modest recovery was registered by the stock market today following the Thanksgiving holiday. It was the third consecutive advance following a week-long decline.

Gains were limited to large fractions and a few shares faltered. Trading was moderate.

Buying was based on hopes of a settlement of the coal strike.

Best prices were set at the opening or shortly afterwards. In the second hour gains were pared.

Ahead most of the morning were pivotals like U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, American Telephone and U. S. Rubber. Other firm spots included Anaconda Copper, R. H. Macy, Westinghouse Electric, American Can, Jones and Laughlin, and American Distilling.

Rails reflected minor selling although a few carriers managed net gains, including Sant Fe. Depressed were Southern Pcific and Union Pacific, the latter slumping two points. Goodrich was a weak spot in an otherwise steady rubber division and a point lower at one time. Oils firmed a slow start. Utilities held steady.

Bonds and curb shares held in a narrow range.

INDIA LEADERS AGREE TO HOLD LONDON PARLEY

Talks Seen as Last Resort in Independence Plan.

LONDON—(INS)—All Indian political factions were reported agreed today on attending London talks described as a last resort to provide independence for India.

A dispatch from New Delhi said that the congress party leader, Jawaharlal Nehru, and a representative of the Sikhs will journey to England for the conference.

All scheduled participants will meet at Karachi Sunday to go by air to London.

The agreement of Nehru, Hindu head of the interim government of India, to attend cast an entirely new outlook on the desperate situation in which the Moslems refused to take part in the constituent assembly because of Hindu domination.

The congress party at first declared it would not participate in the conversations after Viceroy Viscount Wavell was summoned to London and invitations were issued to Hindu leaders, Moslem officials and representatives of Sikhs.

Nehru was understood to have changed his mind about attending following a personal telegraph appeal from Prime Minister Clement Attlee.

Previously the Moslem leader, Mohammed Ali Jinnah, had announced his intention to be present.

The invitations were issued to transfer the scene of discussion from a continually troubled India, scene of repeated communal riots, in an effort to avoid a possible civil war.

Richardson Child Dies at Hospital

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Richardson, Mansfield, R. D. 6, died last night at Mansfield General hospital. The child was born Tuesday.

Funeral services will be held at the grave in Mansfield cemetery at 3 p. m. Saturday. Arrangements are in charge of the Finefrock funeral home.

CHANGES LANGUAGE

TOKYO —(U.P.)— Mainichi, one of Tokyo's leading newspapers, today announced it would introduce a revolutionary simplification of the Japanese language starting Dec. 1 by reducing the number of Chinese characters from the present 5,000 to only 1,850. The change conforms with a simplified written language recently approved by a Japanese government committee.

CHIANG RETIREMENT BRANDED AS FALSE

NANKING —(INS)— High Chinese government sources denied today that Chiang Kai-Shek intends to relinquish the presidency of China and retire.

The denials followed a declaration by Chiang that he has "no political desires" and feels that he can no longer shoulder alone "the great responsibility" of leading the Chinese people.

Big Liner Docks At 'Death' Pier

NEW YORK—(INS)—Preliminary work began today to convert the luxury liner Normandie into scrap. The vessel, once valued at $65 million was shifted across New York bay yesterday by a dozen tugs and placed in a "death bed" pier at Port Newark, N. J.

The Normandie which burned and turned over on its side as it was being converted into a troop ship was sold by the government for scrap after it had been raised from the Hudson river where it had sunk.

Mayor Finally Orders Dimout

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Street lights burned brightly but for the first time since soft coal production stopped, store windows and advertising signs were dark in Columbus last night.

The limited lighting came to the state capital 72 hours after the government order for such action became effective in 21 states. Mayor James A. Rhodes had ignored the order previously. He said that street lights would not be affected.

CUTTER LOSES ITS RACE WITH DEATH

CAPE MAY, N. J.— (U.P.) — A radar-guided coast guard cutter lost its race against death today while rushing to shore a critically injured seaman from the disabled tanker Chantilly.

George A. Legoutte, an oiler injured in an engine room explosion aboard the tanker, died at 5 a. m. this morning, four hours before the cutter Mohawk could reach medical aid.

Legoutte, who suffered compound fracture of the left leg, had been "bleeding badly" for 10 hours before the rescue ship reached the stricken vessel in an eight-hour dash through inky darkness guided by radar equipment.

'MADE IN BRITAIN' SOLDIER COUNT APPROVED IN U. N.

Committee Rejects Russian Plea for Atom Inventory.

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y.—(AP)—The United Nations political committee approved a world-wide soldier census Wednesday and decisively rejected repeated Russian attempts to have atomic and jet-propelled weapons accounted in that inventory of forces.

Russia originally put the idea of a troop count before the United Nations. But the plan which emerged from a tumultuous five hour and 40-minute meeting, after six days of debate, virtually was stamped "made in Britain."

The crisis came on a British motion to enlarge Russia's original proposal which had called only for a count of soldiers on alien lands.

The British won, 10 to 10, with two abstentions, on their move to enumerate domestic forces as well. France and Russia voted against home front reports while China, Britain and the United States stood together for the overall inventory of troops.

The final vote of the whole troop count resolution still is to come but the result apparently will follow the lineup shown in eight successive roll calls.

Vyacheslav M. Molotov, Soviet foreign minister, lost on efforts to widen the troop inventory to include reports on arms including atom bombs, rockets and jet-propelled weapons. Two roll calls were taken and in each case the vote was 24 against, 18 for, 10 abstentions. France and Russia voted together both times.

Molotov also lost a fight to require that information on troops at home be submitted to the security council when it considers that problem of disarmament. The motion was rejected 31 to 10, with 10 abstentions.

U. S. Senator Tom Connally (D-Tex), chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, emphatically objected to what he called the "unfair" tactics of Molotov in trying to include the armaments count in the resolution. He said the United States had nothing to hide but that Molotov's proposal was not in order at this time.

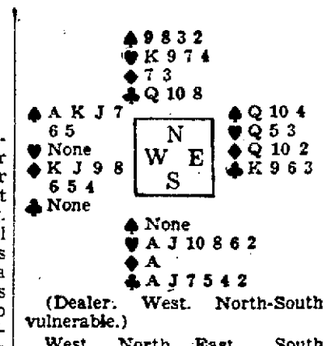
Barclay On Bridge

IF YOU want to hear something truly interesting to the ear of a bridge player, be a kibitzer at a big duplicate tournament when a freak deal comes along. The gaudiest variations of all usually come when one player has two extremely long suits and a member of the other side has great length in the other two suits. Not only may a lot of different contracts result, but the manner of reaching them can vary terrifically from table to table.

There are three of the extremely different bidding sequences on this crazy deal. Who would ever expect it to wind up at less than small slam, as at Table 1, when one side can make a small slam in spades, the other a grand slam in hearts?

Notice that South took three entirely different kinds of action on his turn at the three tables. Where he did not show his controls of the adversely-bid suits, as at Table 2, West got the idea that he might beat the contract, so doubled.



(Dealer. West. North-South vulnerable.)

	West	North	East	South
1.	1 ♠	Pass	1 NT	Dbl
	3 ♠	Pass	3 ♠	4 ♥
	4 ♠	Pass	Pass	5 ♣
	5 ♦	Pass	5 ♠
2.	1 ♠	Pass	1 NT	3 ♥
	4 ♦	4 ♥	4 ♠	6 ♥
	6 ♠ Dbl	Pass	Pass	7 ♥
3.	1 ♠	Pass	1 NT	2 ♠
	3 ♦	3 ♥	3 ♠	4 ♦
	6 ♠ 7 ♠	Pass	Pass	7 ♥

At Table 3, South's cue-bids of the hostile spades and diamonds made it so clear that he expected no losers in those suits that West decided 7-Hearts could not be beaten. So he did the reverse of doubling, sacrificed at a spade grand slam. He was glad he did, as his side got set only one trick whereas the heart grand slam could not be beaten if South properly finessed against East in hearts and clubs. As between the three South players, No. 1 apparently gave too little information, No. 3 too much, No. 2 just right.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

PAGE SIX — MANSFIELD, OHIO FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 29, 1946

After December 16 you can get a spare tire with your new car—if you can get a new car.

Two-car garages have a real advantage after all—one side for the car, the other side for the family.

Scientists say the weather in the United States is definitely growing warmer—but apparently not fast enough to assure against uncomfortable chilliness this winter.

Mansfield's Neglected Social Agencies

TONIGHT the Citizens Council on Social Survey meets to act on recommendations for the first campaign in a long range program designed to give Mansfield new and improved facilities for five social agencies—the YMCA, YWCA, Girl Scouts, Friendly House, and Salvation Army.

This long range plan has been appropriately called "Operation Tomorrow." The name is reminiscent of the war. And it will take mobilizing of the city's best resources to put over this operation which in the long run may cost close to a million dollars.

As in military planning, too, this program is being worked out very carefully in advance by people who are devoting their time and money unselfishly to the cause of a community victory over an inadequate program for the city's youth.

Here is where the operation gets the second part of its name. It is for TOMORROW that the program plans. It is aimed to help young people who will later lead the community. And the long-range plans call for raising money while it is plentiful and spending it when materials are cheaper, when more can be had for the same funds, and when the spending may be a financial help to the community.

"Operation Tomorrow" is everybody's job. About fifty people have taken it upon themselves to start the ball rolling. They will continue to guide and to help the project over the years it may take to bring completion. But it is through the efforts and support of the community as a whole that the enterprise will succeed.

'Where Are Lights?' Children Ask

"WHY don't they turn on the Christmas lights, Daddy?" many a child will be asking.

The children have watched the laurel strung in Central park. In and among the leafy roping they've seen the red and green light bulbs, familiar to them from their own Christmas trees.

The lights were supposed to have been turned on yesterday—but they weren't. The red and green wonderland, of which the children had dreamed, remains dark.

"And why can't we see the toys in the windows at night anymore, Mommie?" another child will question.

Up until this week, store windows, emblazoned with cheerful lights, showed off their fabulous stores of wagons and dolls, games and toys in a gay preview of what Santa's pack would contain. Then the lights went off.

Eyes, that had opened wide in wonder at the lighted windows, became clouded with tears of disappointment.

There's only one answer to give to questions the children will ask—and they may not understand. It is not that coal must be saved to keep lights on in hospitals, on street corners and in homes. Not that the mayor has ordered lights turned off because of an "emergency."

The real answer is that a modern-day Scrooge, similar to that figment of Dickens' imagination, has made it necessary to disappoint millions of Tiny Tims and Marys all over the nation by turning off their Christmas lights.

Elliott Roosevelt 'Speaks His Mind'

ELLIOTT ROOSEVELT is quoted as having said, during his current "blind-seeing" tour of Russia that he thought the Soviets had never broken their word while the United States and Britain have repeatedly violated their pledges at Yalta, Teheran and Potsdam. He also defied his Moscow audience to "name one instance in which the United States had acted to further the cause of peace."

Well, Elliott's only claim to fame is that he had a world-known father. He does have, of course, considerable notoriety in his own right but that hardly gives any weight to his words.

He is entitled to express his own opinions. That those opinions border on treason against the administration which tried to carry on the policies of Franklin Roosevelt is something which Elliott must settle with his own conscience.

The Russians are probably elated at the speech. It makes fine propaganda. It is worth gallons of free vodka.

Americans are bound to consider that Elliott is currently trafficking on his father's memory—that he has never proved himself capable of, or interested in, earning a living by work.

If Elliott chooses to denounce the nation which gave his family its wealth and prominence, if Elliott chooses to serve the cause of Communism, that is his business. We are entitled to our opinions too. And we think such conduct is a shoddy business.

Disease Threatens Elm Trees

THE STATELY elm that enhances the American landscape in so many sections is losing a fight for survival. Every year thousands of these graceful trees die from what has been called the Dutch elm disease, identified first in Ohio after World War I.

Americans want to keep the elm if possible. Two plans are being worked out to this end. One is extensive experimentation with types of elm resistant to this disease. Trees of these species are being planted extensively and with good results. Another effort goes into fighting the disease on existing trees.

Recently DDT has proved a hopeful antidote in killing the under-bark beetle responsible for spread of the disease. Directions for use of this insecticide and for fertilizing and pruning old trees, as well as descriptions of the new type of elm, are prepared in a free folder issued by the department of agriculture. State experiment stations likewise have helpful literature available.

All owners of elms will want to help keep the elm tree in the American picture.

After several weeks of deep thought, the Indianapolis News attributes the Republican victory to the Democratic defeat—after which what more need be said?

Claude Callan concludes: "A man is a real friend if he knows you well and actually likes you in spite of it."

Someone suggests that an "open mind" tends to cause prejudices to evaporate.

Lewis Maneuvering To Place His Brother at Head of Miners Union

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Only a few people in the high bureaucracy of the United Mine Workers know it, but John L. Lewis has troubles of his own among his top-level executives. Despite his calm, David-fighting - Goliath, public - be-damned attitude, Lewis is in the middle of a vital tug-of-war regarding his own successor as president of the union.

It is no secret that Lewis's health is not good. Not only did he have a close call during his appendix operation last summer, but since then he is reported to be suffering from arteriosclerosis, which keeps sufficient blood from going to his head, and in some people causes mental delusions.

At any rate, Lewis knows that his three-decade dictatorship of the miners must soon draw to a close, and already he is thinking about ways and means of preserving the Lewis dynasty.

His logical successor is Thomas Kennedy, secretary-treasurer of the miners and former lieutenant governor of Pennsylvania. One of the most popular men in the union, Kennedy has consistently polled a vote as great or greater than Lewis's and is completely independent of Lewis's support.

Kennedy is more studious, more statesmanlike, than Lewis, is one of the great parliamentarians of the country, frequently disagrees vigorously though privately with John L. Labor leaders have always wondered why Kennedy, a close friend of Phil Murray's, did not resign from the miners when Murray left; but at any rate he preferred to stay on, perhaps because of his $18,000 salary.

As secretary-treasurer he would easily be the rank-and-file choice of the miners to succeed Lewis. John L., however, has another man in mind—his brother.

Bulldozer Denny.

A. D. "Denny" Lewis, 57-year-old bulldozing roustabout, is head of the Mine Workers catch-all District 50, is strictly a roughneck, has none of his brother's brains, oratorical capacity, or courage.

Several years ago John L. set Denny up as head of District 50, a union which takes in everything from chemical workers to dairy farmers, and which Lewis established to compete with AFL and CIO unions in various industries.

Denny devoted himself to setting up a construction workers' union in competition with the AFL, but never got very far. The fact is that organizing costs for District 50 are five times as high as any place else in the union movement, partly because of the paid thugs, petty mobsters and gunmen kept on the payroll for use when the going gets tough.

Lewis's secret strategy is to resign as active president of the union, become president emeritus at full salary, and name bull-necked brother Denny as acting president.

This Lewis could do through his control over the union's executive board. However, "Denny" could never keep the miners together. He never will become better than a paid union hack. Even among John L.'s closest collaborators, his friends are few.

Denny is known throughout the union as the chief of John L's espionage organization, with the job of finding out who is saying unkind things about brother John behind his back.

This is the setup inside the United Mine Workers, and it isn't an easy one for John L. Lewis.

If he is able to outwit Tom Kennedy and manipulate his succession into family hands, it will be an even greater trick than standing the government of the United States on its ear.

Statue To Harry Truman.

One labor leader who won't forget his grudge against President Truman is silver-crested A. F. Whitney, head of the railroad trainmen, whom Truman castigated publicly last spring. Whitney tells this story about a mythical statue to be erected to Truman in Washington.

"Let's put the statue next to the Washington monument," proposed one member of the committee to honor Harry Truman.

"No, George Washington never told a lie," replied the committee member representing the trainmen.

"Well, let's put it next to Roosevelt's statue," was another suggestion.

"No, Roosevelt always kept his word," replied the trainman.

Finally, the trainman suggested that Truman's statue be put next to that of Columbus.

"Why?" asked a member of the committee.

"Because," replied the trainman, "Columbus didn't know where he was going, didn't know where he was when he got there, and didn't know where he'd been when he got back. And besides, he did it all on borrowed money."

Note—One reason trainman Whitney is so sore at Truman is that the RR trainmen raised considerable money to re-elect Truman as Senator from Missouri in 1940 when many people thought Harry was liked.

Tribute To Volunteer Workers As Price Control Board Folds

By CHARLES C. BEELMAN
Chairman Richland County Price Control Board

HATS OFF . . . for if there was ever a time to say hats off to a volunteer army—this is it.

I'm speaking, of course, of our army of price control board members and volunteers, who have now been demobilized, an army which served its country well for five long years during the most critical era in our history.

We are still too close to realize in full—the magnitude—the vital importance—and the continuing benefits of the job done by our OPA boards. History will attend to that.

Nowhere but in America would a people have the audacity to put a job the size of our wartime rationing and price control in the hands of volunteers.

Nowhere in the world but in America was the job so fully done by volunteers, a hundred and twenty-five thousand board members, one hundred and ten thousand additional volunteers — not counting the tens of thousands of school teachers who helped in the issue of ration books.

These were the people, from every city, every county in the United States who volunteered for the biggest rationing and price control program in history.

And who made up this vast homefront army? Men and women, rich and poor, the lofty and humble turned out to do their part in helping win the war. Factory and office workers, bankers, housewives, clergymen, all races, religions and all shades of political opinion, all volunteers.

Many of them came into the board offices after putting in a full day at their own work. Often they were dog-tired. But they stuck to their posts, doing the work assigned to them. Why? Because they had volunteered to do a war-job and they were there to do it.

I remember the girl who came in to offer her services when we were just setting up the Mansfield board. Her husband was killed in his first day of action. I remember the father who said: "Four of my sons have volunteered, two in the army and two in the navy. I want to volunteer too." I remember the grandfather who said, "I can't fight but I can still work."

All of them worked long, tiring hours day after day and night after night, calling on every retail store to explain rationing, price control, making surveys, holding conferences about overcharge complaints. Thousands of problems to solve, some big, some small, but all big as far as the person affected was concerned.

In many ways the story of the war price and rationing boards is one of the most inspiring of the home front. No pay, no glory and sometimes no thanks. Undramatic work, lack of sufficient help, complicated regulations to administer, but a job that had to be done and it was done by volunteers.

Here was America, the real America. Here was democracy in action.

Now, as we reach another milestone in our forward march from all-out war to all-out peace, these volunteers have been mustered out. Orders to close the 18 northern Ohio price control boards along with the hundreds of others throughout the country, came from Washington.

And with the order, came grateful praise from Administrator Paul Porter to every volunteer for having given so loyally of his time and effort.

Every one of us is grateful to price control board volunteers for the untiring and often thankless work they have done. There is no better way for all to show our gratitude than to put our shoulders to the wheel now—and help push.

Assignment: America

—By KENNETH L. DIXON

Younger Miners Are Doing Some Thinking.

Kenneth L. Dixon, author of "Assignment: America," has been spending some time in the nation's soft coal fields. In today's column he writes from a mythical "Coalpatch, Pa."

COALPATCH, Pa.—To the best of this correspondent's knowledge, there is no such place as Coalpatch in Pennsylvania. It is used as a mythical dateline to preserve completely the anonymity of the characters hereinafter quoted—in keeping with a promise made to them.

This is written after visiting numerous coal towns and communities — "patches" they more often are called—throughout this mining area.

It is written to answer a question you hear everywhere:

"If John L. Lewis' power waning among his United Mine Workers?" The answer is, "yes."

However, like most such dogmatic replies, it must be qualified by a warning: the operators, the United States government or the military authorities can give that power back to him—stronger than ever before — today or tomorrow or the next day, by careless handling of the Lewis case in the current soft coal crisis.

It must not be assumed that even the malcontents in the Lewis flock are planning to desert their black-browed boss in the midst of this shutdown business, or while he's bickering with the big shots across the barricade.

They have no such intention, and it would take persuasive wooing to win them away at this stage of the game.

Nevertheless, plenty of the boys are beginning to bow their necks against Lewis leadership. Roughly, they fall into two classes:

1—The younger miners, many of them veterans, who are extremely outspoken in their objections to Lewis tactics.

2—Old-timer miners, still underground today, who are beginning to believe that Lewis has been so long gone from the pits that he's lost touch with the men he's hired to represent.

It's easy to get quotes, if anonymity is promised, from the youngsters. They run like this:

"You can have Lewis — any time. Hell, I got enough of being ordered around in the army. I didn't have any vote in what I did on my own side then, and it looks like I don't have now. Nobody asked me if I wanted to go out . . ."

"What's he being such a big-shot for? Anybody could have gotten us that last contract. We don't need any John L. Lewis. . ."

"It's all right, I guess, if you've got dough stuck away. I just got outa the army and I just got married and I'm broke. I can't afford to go without pay now."

"You don't see him sweatin' it out in a shack, with his kids expecting Christmas presents like mine are. He's got his made. . ."

"I just got a new car. Now, I'll lose it. . ."

"It's easy to tell us to walk out when he's sleeping in a nice soft bed in a big house every night and eating whatever he wants. That's the way generals used to do. You can have it."

So it went, and often they clustered around to tell you.

The old-timers were much more noncommittal, still lost in the Lewis legend, and tended to look over their shoulder when they spoke. But many of them did speak, thusly:

"John's done us a lot of good, but sometimes I wonder if he's thinking about the miner nowadays when he pulls tricks like this . . ."

"It's been a long time since he was down a mine. Bet all he's got is 'conference muscles' now."

This always was good for a laugh.

It may be that Lewis, sensing the growing dissension, has made the perfect move to close the ranks behind him in solid support.

And it could well be that heavy-handed government handling of the Lewis case might press the crown of thorns down on that beetling brow, make him into a miner's martyr, A.D., and thus re-gild a hero who was beginning to tarnish in spots.

Seek Loans for Pre-Fabricated Houses.

WASHINGTON — One of the blockades, among many, in the languishing veterans housing program is the refusal of Reconstruction Finance Corporation, through Director George E. Allen, to approve a number of loans to private companies to make pre-fabricated houses.

Wilson Wyatt, housing expediter, who recommended a dozen such loans, deplored this "banking-as-usual" attitude when he appeared before the senate war investigating committee to complain about rejection of the loans as not good business risks.

This pre-fabricated housing construction project is an important part of the veterans housing program approved by congress. It offers, at the same time, an opportunity for American industrial enterprise to embark upon what seems surely the next great advance in housing commensurate with some of our other industrial advances in the past.

Mr. Wyatt made the point that these loans should be regarded in the same way as those made to private industry for producing war materials, instead of being considered on a narrow and strict business basis.

They are certainly related to the war, since they are to produce homes for those who risked their lives.

Perhaps it would help illuminate the case for the veteran and for the public if the senate committee would make a parallel investigation. This should go into the billions advanced by the RFC to build plants to produce war materials which subsequently were sold at bargain prices to private companies that had operated them or to others. During the war the RFC advanced $6,055,000,000 to build 920 plants and $740,000,000 for expansion of facilities at 122 existing plants.

The senate committee could well explore, too, other ways in which the government treated private industry most handsomely in connection with war contracts and war plants.

One was in renegotiation, which was most liberal. Another was in the very liberal amortization allowances which permit corporations to write off depreciation on their income taxes all out of proportion to actual depreciation and over short periods, so that war plants and war facilities in some cases were practically gifts.

This was all a part of the very generous attitude which contributed, during the war era, to greater concentration of industry in fewer hands.

It is a significant untold story, and one which is due the public and the veteran who now finds the government unwilling to take a risk for him.

Mr. Wyatt is making the same fight now, on behalf of the veteran, that others made, including Henry A. Wallace, to get the RFC under Jesse H. Jones in the days just preceding the war and thereafter to liberalize its policy so the nation could purchase strategic materials then in dire shortages. Afterward the RFC had to pour out its billions to build war plants. It was a necessity.

Mr. Wyatt is on sound ground in his conception of the function of RFC as to the theory back of it. It was set up by the Hoover administration in the days of panic at the start of the last depression to bolster shaky American finance and capitalism by loans.

It represented a compromise with private finance capitalism, whereby the government would assist where private capital could not, or would not, venture. It has continued on that basis, with frequent delegations by congress to lend in new fields.

CIO Expects Lewis to Be the Winner.

WASHINGTON — When the CIO, in convention at Atlantic City, adopted a resolution taking John L. Lewis' side in the current dispute, it was not out of love of the man who gave the CIO its start. It was done in the belief that Lewis was bound to win his legal battle with the government, and therefore the CIO wanted to ride with a winner.

Some CIO leaders have expressed this with remarkably frank cynicism. It is certain, they say, that Lewis will win the final round in the Supreme Court.

The case will eventually go to the highest court and it may get there much quicker than is normally possible. If the court should decide that the case was of sufficient national importance, a special session could be held at which the coal dispute could be given precedence.

That happened in the summer of 1942 in the case of the German saboteurs who were caught by the FBI and were tried by a military commission. Within three days, the court, in a memorandum opinion, denied the petition of the saboteurs for habeas corpus.

Unhappily, the coal case is likely to reopen the bitter court feud that was exposed to public view last June. In his blast from Nuremberg, where he was prosecuting the German war criminals, Associate Justice Robert H. Jackson let the world know what he thought of his colleague, Associate Justice Hugo L. Black.

The quarrel had been touched off by the Jewell Ridge Coal company case. Jackson believed that Black should have disqualified himself from sitting in that case because Black's former law partner, Crampton Harris, was attorney for the United Mine Workers local which won a 5 to 4 decision from the court. This was the portal-to-portal-pay case in which Lewis' miners were awarded pay for the time they spend traveling from the portal to the surface at which the coal in mined.

Because Jackson felt so strongly, he attached to the opinions in the case an almost unprecedented statement in which, in legal language, he plainly rebuked his colleague Black. Later, from Nuremberg, he went even further:

". . . while Mr. Justice Murphy was preparing his opinion, a strike of the mine workers and negotiations with the operators were proceeding. It was proposed to hand down the decision in favor of the miners without waiting for the opinion and dissent. The only apparent reason behind this proposal was to announce the decision in time to influence the contract negotiations.

"During the coal strike, Chief Justice Stone protested such proposed irregular treatment vigorously. I do not believe Mr. Justice Murphy favored it. In all events, it was abandoned. . . ."

That glimpse into how another coal strike tore the high court asunder may foreshadow another and more violent turmoil. This time, of course, it would be the government seeking redress from the action of the miners' chieftain.

But the issue projected by Jackson, of whether Black should sit in the case, would be to the fore again. In the conclusion of his Nuremburg statement, Jackson said:

"However innocent the coincidence of these two victories at successive terms by Justice Black's former law partner, I wanted that practice stopped. If it is ever repeated while I am on the bench, I will make my Jewell Ridge opinion look like a letter of recommendation by comparison. . . ."

Labor leaders base their confidence in the outcome of the present legal dispute on several things. One, obviously, is the fact that the majority of the court has proved to be distinctly pro-labor and liberal, in sharp contrast to the majority that consistently voted down New Deal laws.

Dave Boone Says:

THERE are plenty of things that put this year's Thanksgiving under a dimout. Not even during the war years did Uncle Sam seem in such a helpless, befuddled, aimless condition. Americans, at the moment, are puzzled and depressed as they look ahead.

But at the same time no other nation on earth has more reason for gratitude. With all our troubles, we are immeasurably blessed. After all, there is only one John L. Lewis.

Most Americans are far from the Lewis pattern. The great bulk of our people have in them something of the spirit, the humility and the charity of the Pilgrim Fathers who landed on a rock-bound coast and, against every privation, conquered a wilderness, doing it with patience, hard work, brotherly love and in the ways of God as they understood them.

No one can picture any of those early Americans putting himself above all the others, defying the community will and splitting hairs over whether a strike is a strike or whether it is just something done by mirrors.

DEM SENATOR RAPS TAX CUT PLAN OF GOP

Taylor Calls For Reduction For Low Income Groups.

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — Sen. Glen H. Taylor, D., Ida., today called for sizable cuts in taxes for middle and lower income groups, but denounced proposed across-the-board reductions as schemes to "give millions to the millionaires and pennies to the poor."

He said the tax reduction programs suggested by some Republican leaders and the U. S. Chamber of Commerce "offer little real hope of tax relief for the family in the lower income brackets."

Rep. Harold Knutson, R., Minn., who is slated to head the house ways and means committee in the new congress, has urged a flat 20 per cent cutback in all personal income taxes. The Chamber of Commerce has asked a 25 per cent reduction.

"Under Representative Knutson's 20 per cent reduction proposal," Taylor said, "a married man with two children who makes $3,000 a year would have his taxes cut by $27.40 a year. An individual with a million dollar income would have his taxes cut $167,683.55."

Taylor advocated a program which would raise the exemption level to about $3,000 for a family of four, cut rates in the middle and lower income brackets, and remove all excise taxes except those on luxuries.

"'Across the board' reductions give little or no help to the little man," he said. "But they give a great bonus to the man whose bank accounts are swollen with war profits. Congress has already given a tax rebate to the rich through the repeal of the excess profits tax.

"It would be grossly unfair to bestow an additional gift upon them, at the expense of wage and salary earners."

Taylor said that with inflation "drastically cutting away the purchasing power of the wage earner" a 20 per cent reduction in the lower brackets was "not adequate."

The GOP tax reduction pledges have come almost exclusively from Republicans in the house. Party leaders in the senate have not ruled out a 20-per cent slash but say it first will be necessary to find where in the budget the revenue can be spared.

Try and Stop Me

—By Bennet Cerf

The following story, reprinted from a travel journal published in 1830, offers an English appraisal at that time of the American character:

"An American farmer bought a cart full of pigeons to Philadelphia market on a day there happened to be a glut of them, and could find no purchasers. He offered them at half price. Still no purchasers. Not caring to cart his load back again, he then offered to give them away, but the people, supposing they must be stolen, would not have them.

"He then drove his cart on and dropped three or four every ten yards, but somebody always picked them up, bawled, 'Mister, you are losing your pigeons,' and threw them back in his cart. Mortified, the man stopped his horse, and leaned back, pretending to be asleep. Instantly, man, woman and child set to work and stole every one of his pigeons."

Every light suddenly went out at the Hawkins place and pa and ma went down in the cellar to investigate. "Put your hand on that there wire, ma," commanded pa, "and tell me if you feel anything." "Nothin' at all," reported ma. "Good," said pa. "Now just don't touch the other one, or ye'll probably drop dead."

The game of fitting odd words into sentence continues merrily among the posters. One grim party produced the following horrible example:

SOVIET: Diner was ready soviet.

CADILLAC: A cadillac mean if you pull its tail.

BOLL WEEVIL: After the boll weevil all go home.

LOQUACIOUS: She bumped into me so I told her to loquacious going.

Louise Enderle Becomes Bride Of C. L. Perl on Thanksgiving

IVORY SATIN brocade formed the wedding gown of Miss Louise Margaret Enderle when she became the bride of Cletus L. Perl Thanksgiving day in St. Peter's Catholic church.

Given in marriage by her father, Miss Enderle, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Enderle, 524 Harter avenue, wore a formal gown with a sheer net yoke trimmed with a wide cuff of brocade at the shoulder caught into a knot in front. The full skirt extended into the long train. Her veil of ivory illusion was attached to a bonnet of imported ivory lace, and she carried gardenies on a white prayer book.

Msgr. R. C. Goebel performed the ceremony uniting Miss Enderle and the son of Otto A. Perl, 157 Lexington avenue, before an altar decorated with palms, ferns and vases of white flowers. Raymond Baum was organist for the ceremony.

Mrs. J. E. Kennedy, sister of the bride and matron of honor and Miss Frances Perl, cousin of the bridegroom, bridesmaid, wore deep yellow marquisette gowns with wide berthas edged with ruffles and headbands of yellow ostrich tips and velvet bows. Their bouquets were of yellow and talisman roses.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Enderle chose a black dress and accessories and a corsage of gardenias.

Dr. J. J. Clark served as his cousin's best man while Robert Enderle, brother of the bride, Roger Perl, cousin of the bridegroom, and Jack E. Kennedy, brother-in-law and the bride, acted as ushers.

A wedding breakfast for the immediate families at the home of the bride was followed by a reception at the Enderle home for approximately 100 guests. Miss Rita Jean Marshall and Mrs. Jack Arron presided at the bridal table.

When leaving for a wedding trip to Canada and Niagara Falls, Mrs. Perl wore a green suit, with brown accessories and a muskrat coat. The couple will return Dec. 8 and will reside at the Lexington avenue address.

First Fashion News for Resorts; Bathing Suits In Gold and Velvet

By BARBARA BUNDSCHU
(United Press Fashion Writer)

NEW YORK — (U.P.) — Shining gold and lustrous velvet will be diving into resort swimming pools this winter and ocean waves next summer and coming out as tidy as they went in—which is pretty neat indeed.

Fabric and fit are the biggest news in Rose Marie Reed's newest bathing suits, made in California and shown in New York this week for the first time.

In addition to solid gold (actually a plastic coated aluminum yarn which is non-tarnishable) and the water repellent nylon lastex velvet (not completely perfected but very much on the way), Mrs. Reed uses a dull finished satin lastex and crisply treated nylons and cottons for a functional and decorative line of suits.

They're built for both swimming and effective sunning with straps which are elasticized part way for free movement and may be either crossed high on the back to insure stay-put in the water or tied around the neck or dispensed with altogether for sun.

Strapped or strapless, all the Reed suits have built-in bras to improve the bathing beauty line, and one suit for extra large swimmers has a girdle as well.

Mrs. Reed's apparent favorite is a classic one-piece strapped model which has a brief skirt in front and none in back, and no fastenings of any kind. The lastex has been made to do an adequate stretch job for what is said to be the first time. One of these suits is woven through with gold thread. Others are in the usual lastex yarns, dull finished, and in other metallics.

Second most prominent in the collection is a strapless suit with a ruffle around the top, an all over shirred back and a front with vertical gathers at sides and center front. This appears in a red and white window pane check, and is also chosen for the gold and silver mermaid suits.

For girls with over large thighs, Mrs. Reed makes several suits with barrelled skirts of nylon and cotton, treated for fast-drying and crispness. Many of them feature a high V neckline with either permanent or detachable straps.

The suits sell for $12.95 to $89.50 (the latter for solid gold) but the golden lastex may be had in the $20-$30 price range.)

Teenager Can't Forget Old Love

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 17½ years old and have been in love with a fellow almost four years. He knows I love him, because I almost told him so, yet, when he sees me, he talks and jokes as he would with his sisters. I don't like this because I always think he is doing it to make fun of me behind my back. What do you think?

Another thing, he told me one night that he would take me out for graduation. Do you think I should go? Maybe he was doing this because he knows I love him, and just to satisfy me. Should I tell him, on graduation, about his promise, or just forget about it and eat my heart out until it's worn and sick? "Jackie"

It seems to me, "Jackie," that you are doing your worrying far in advance when you are giving so much thought to what you are going to do about your graduation. That must be a long way off, and a lot of things can happen before then. If I were you, I would not start on this problem until you're a little nearer to the time when it comes up.

If it will help you to stop doing this advance worrying, however, I will answer the question you asked, about whether or not you should go to the graduation with this young man, since he has invited you. Certainly; why not?

If you are only 17½ now and have been thinking about this boy for the past 4 years, don't you think you began a little early to make up your mind on the big question of love? Give yourself a bit more time, and see a lot more of boys, before you decide that any of them is the one for you. At your age, you should be having good times with many people.

And don't you think you are dramatizing yourself a little when you talk about "eating your heart out?" Hearts are a lot tougher than you, at 17, have had a chance to find out yet, and they stand an awful lot of wear. If you give yours a chance, I feel sure that one day it will pick out the right man for you.

* * *

Dear Miss Fairfax:

When I was discharged from the service, I fell in love with a girl I met at a wedding. I was the happiest man in the world, for a time. I would call her a few times every day and we would see each other for two or three times a week. I wanted to marry her, but she couldn't become serious.

About four months ago, she began acting indifferent toward me and would not give me any reason. I would have to call her three or four times before I could date her. Finally, one day, I told her I would not call her any more and I also told her she should call me up some time when she is not so busy.

For four whole months I tore my heart out for her. The clear night she called me. I made no dates with her, but I am thinking about it. Should I see her again? Does she only want to see me for a few times and then brush me off again? How can I be sure she has changed her attitude toward me?

"Doubtful"

There is no way you can be sure your girl has changed her attitude without trying her out again. Maybe, as you suggest, her interest is only very mild, and she might brush you off again after a short time. It is perfectly possible that, when you stopped trying to date her, she wanted to see if she could get you back again, not so much because she was deeply interested in you, but merely out of feminine curiosity and vanity.

On the other hand, she may have discovered, in the four months you have been ignoring her, that she cared more about you than she thought, and really didn't want to lose you. So why not give her another chance?

Weight-Lifting Fine For Figure, Says Mr. America

By CLAIRE COX
(UP Staff Correspondent)

CHICAGO —(UP)— Mr. America said today that American girls are too skinny.

They would be prettier, he said, if they would practice weight lifting.

Mr America is Alan Stephan, 22, Cicero, Ill., a 205-pound mass of muscle who won his title in a male beauty contest at Detroit. In his spare time he is a weight lifter

His job is to travel around to high schools telling students what is wrong with their physiques.

"There's plenty wrong, too," he said. "What the girls lack mostly is curves."

He said most girls are too fat or too skinny.

"Their complexions are bad and they have poor posture They wear too much makeup, and they don't get enough fresh air"

Stephan said the girl whose only exercise is bending her elbow at the corner drugstore never will be attractive.

"It's muscles that make a girl shapely," he explained. "The fatty layer women have under their skin hides the muscle bulges, but you can tell it's there all right."

Stephan said girls should start out with simple tumbling exercises and work-up gradually to weight lifting.

"Some of the best looking girls are weight lifters," he added. "I talked them into it, and you should see the difference."

They not only look different, but they act and think different, he said. The girl who can lift a 100 pound weight stands straighter, thinks better and feels healthier than the girl who thinks its a strain to lift a ping-pong paddle, he said.

Stephan said the girls also might try eating what their mothers cook for them, instead of what they find to munch on between meals.

"I try to tell them to remember an old Greek adage—a sound mind in a sound body"

"But the main objective is more and better curves I'm not advocating a Mae West shape, you understand, but when a fellow puts his arm around a girl, he doesn't want to have an armful of bones."

Fire Kills 23 Pedigreed Dogs

AKRON — (INS) — Authorities blamed an overheated stove for a fire in which 23 pedigreed dogs, valued at $5,000, burned to death in nearby Portage Lakes.

The kennels in which 26 dogs were housed were partially destroyed at an estimated $2,000 loss, according to authorities. Neither the dogs nor the kennels, which are the property of Miss Jane Harper, was insured.

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, November 30.

A SUDDEN and surprising turn in the affairs may bring on an unforeseen stroke in the direction of good luck and as well strange adventures, dramatic and stirring Should this be met with balance and proper perspective there might be an about-face of far-reaching and radical importance on the entire life. It may be a time for fresh starts in new and desired pastures, with revived hopes and wishes and golden opportunity at the end of the rainbow. But keep calm shunning strife and contention in all contacts

Those whose birthday it is may enjoy a period of sudden adventure or thrilling romance, with a complete reversal of the affairs. This may have strange and amazing denouements in new fields of fortune and favor, with long range and radical climax But it will be well to keep a balanced and poised mode of conduct, not being swept away by excitement or bewilderment And also keep free of rash and erratic moves and arguments or extravagant claims or gestures

A child born on this day should enjoy an adventurous and possibly dramatic life, with originality or ingenuity out of the ordinary.

Big Black-Beards of Russia Exist Only In Imagination

(Fourth of a series)
By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW—(AP)—The once popular conception of the Russian as a very huge man with a long black beard and high boots has been debunked numerous times, but this image still exists in the minds of many Americans.

The Russians are not a big people. They always comment on the size of Americans. As a race, Americans are much larger

Russian men like to wear boots and the Russian cap, of cloth or fur. They do not like hats

In summertime, thousands of Russians wear little gay-colored skull caps, but the plain blue serge cap always is in style. In winter, this often is changed to a caracul cap.

Women's hats here, like everywhere else, are unpredictable. They range from somber plain blacks to feather explosions of color. In winter, many Russians, particularly women from the country, wear shawls over their heads and in summer a handkerchief. But there is brisk trade in modern headgear

Like Gay Ties.

One distinguishing feature of men's suits is the Russian preference for short coats. The Russians also like gay ties and a large loose knot. Stripes are in vogue and a rainbow model gets many admiring glances.

Because of the large amount of rain and snow, rubbers and galoshes are seen on millions of pairs of feet The ancient valenki, or felt boot, still is popular, even in the cities, especially in cold weather.

Taking into exception that there wasn't much for the consumer during the war, Russian girls and women dress about like American and English women.

High heels generally are preferred. Lipstick is used, but not much cheek rouge Complexions here usually are real and blooming.

Women operate the men's barber shops and the beauty shops which are plentiful and always busy.

For entertainment, the city Russian has the theater and a very good one at that. He has movies, concerts of every kind, public lectures, clubs, dances, restaurants and a lot of sport.

The theater in the Soviet Union is extremely popular and there are practically no empty seats The same goes for the movies.

There are no night clubs as such, but many restaurants have floor entertainment and dance orchestras. These restaurants are tremendously popular. There are bars and pubs, too. One spacious and resplendent one on one of Moscow's main streets is called "Koktail Zal" Wine is the most popular drink, with vodka, the national liquor, perhaps next, and then beer.

Most of all, I'd say the Russian likes to drink tea. They drink it by the gallons. Talk and tea has been a national pastime for generations

Sports take up a lot of time. The Russians have soccer, football, hockey, boxing, wrestling, weight lifting, ski racing, jumping, track, water polo, basketball, tennis and plenty of horse racing. There is no baseball or cricket.

Thousands upon thousands of Russians go to church regularly on Saturday night and Sunday morning. All churches are always packed.

The Russians are great readers. Newspapers and magazines play an important role in their daily life. All papers could print thousands of more copies than they do.

Much of the Russian housewife's day is spent in shopping. She must go to the ration store, the open market store, or the peasant market, all some distance from one another. This takes time—and money. The Russian man and boy works. When they come home, they expect a good meal.

Russians like to talk and argue and tell stories. They generally are excellent listeners They are very social and they like to visit one another.

They have a great zest for holidays. The principal ones are the anniversary of the revolution on Nov. 7, New Year's eve, New Year's day, May 1, and Easter. Some attention is paid to the Russian Christmas on Jan. 7, but it is not a real national holiday.

MORROW TOLD BUILD OR LOSE FARM ESTATE

Court Rules County Must Establish Children's Home.

MT. GILEAD—Morrow county commissioners must establish a childrens' home in the county in order to carry out terms of the will of the late Charles Ellsworth Parsons, according to a ruling made this week by Common Pleas Judge Leland Rutherford in the action of Ethel Elder, a taxpayer, against McKinley Thomas and the Morrow county commissioners.

In a ten page ruling on the action for clarification of the will's terms, Judge Rutherford also stated that such a home need not be established on the 80-acre Troy township farm left to the county by Parsons.

Parsons, who died Sept. 9, 1941, left his farm for a home for disabled or needy children in memory of his wife, Isadora Davis Parsons. The residue of the estate was to be used to maintain the home.

The county commissioners joined Miss Elder in the clarification action. In her petition Miss Elder asked whether under the provision of the will the home must be constructed on the farm or whether the proceeds of the farm and stocks, bonds and money are to be used to construct a home elsewhere.

The court found that the farm might be sold for the highest price obtainable on the order of the court and that the proceeds could be used for a home at such a location in the county as the commissioners might determine desirable.

* * *

Property Accepted.

The second question asked on the petition was whether the commissioners might reject the bequest and turn the property and revenue over to the Rural Mail Carriers a ssociation, to whom it was to go if the c ommissioners failed to accept under the terms of the will. They did accept the property on May 4, 1942.

The court ruled that as long as the bequest stands as accepted by the commissioners, they have an obligation to act in good faith and carry out the terms of the will as promptly as is reasonably profitable. The court did not believe, however, that they had been precluded from rejecting the bequest. If they do reject it, they must account to the alternate beneficiaries for all assets if they decide to turn it over.

Shelby Light Employes Ask 15-Cent Wage Hike

SHELBY — City council will take action on a request from employes of Municipal Light and Water companies for a 15-cent-an-hour wage increase at a regular semi-monthly session Monday at 7 p. m. in the city hall.

The increase was asked to take care of the increased cost of living.

J. P. Adkins, general manager of the municipal utilities, is expected to reject or accept the council's compromise on his resigning as supervisor of the water plant and to continue as superintendent of the light company with his same $383 a month salary.

The council agreed on the compromise at the last session after Law Director Robert Green had pointed out that the councilmen had no authority to oust Adkins from the water post because of classified civil service laws.

If Adkins refuses to resign from the water post, the council is expected to push their charges of neglect against the general manager.

Suggestions by the special rural church committee appointed last month includes three recommendations: That a religious display be set up at the county fair; that a vesper service be held on Sunday afternoon prior to the opening of the fair, and that teaching religion in the schools be encouraged.

Wives of ministers will be guests at the December meeting in St. John Evangelical Reformed church when Probate Judge Constance R. Keller will be the speaker.

Couple Observes 50th Anniversary

BUCYRUS—Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Newman, 615 South Sandusky avenue, observed their 50th wedding anniversary this week. No celebration was planned to mark the occasion but the couple received many cards and flowers in remembrance of the date.

Pegler Fair Enough

NEW YORK—Some of the reviews and the promotion material now being used to stimulate the sale of a scandalous book prompt this further discussion of the works of John Roy Carlson, and other matters.

John Roy Carlson is one of many false names used by a young sneak, whose original name has been established as Derounian. During the war he turned out one called "Under Cover" of which 700,000 copies were sold and a campaign is now under way to achieve comparable success for a sequel called "The Plotters." Both books purport to present original material proving the existence in the United States of a fascist conspiracy against not only the economy and government of the nation but against the dignity and liberties of "minorities." The method in both cases follows an assumption that all Americans who opposed Roosevelt's foreign policy and fought the communist treachery were fascists because Roosevelt and the communists were outwardly anti-fascist. That many of Roosevelt's "progressive" measures were taken from the book of fascism and that Josef Stalin joined Adolf Hitler in starting the recent war as Hitler's ally are facts forgotten in the nimble and convenient reasoning of Derounian and those implicated with him. For convenience, and of desperate necessity, Stalin and Russia turned "anti-Nazi" after June 22, 1941, and, by development, those Americans who were not deceived and maintained their opposition to communism became Nazis because Hitler, too, was anti-communist.

The Herald-Tribune gave "The Plotters" a prominent Sunday review and assigned it to Arthur M. Schlesinger, jr., who recently wrote an estimate of the communist movement in the United States for "Life," which, on analysis, impressed me as inadequate and, for whatever reason, deceptive. Schlesinger is one of those Harvard prodigies.

Schlesinger says "The Plotters" is "an interim report of the current activities of merchants of disunity and concentrates on their attempts to exploit the grievances and resentments of the veterans."

Granting that "merchants of disunity" are so engaged, we may observe that the A. V. C. certainly appeals to those grievances and resentments and that both political parties, the communists and most unions and the Political Action Committee do likewise.

* * *

DEROUNIAN and Schlesinger both disapprove of "nationalism," a term synonymous in many American minds with "patriotism," and Schlesinger states that "the busiest nationalist activity takes place in a curious, shadowy underworld" which happens to be an excellent description of the congressional district represented by Vito Mercantonio, the congressman whose program has been consistent with that of the communists in all essential matters.

Schlesinger's article in Life, purporting to be a learned and expert expose of the communist conspiracy, conspicuously failed to include the Political Action Committee of the CIO as an organization which has been "penetrated" by communist personalities and influence. He doesn't even refer to the Political Action Committee in this summary of CIO groups.

The Herald-Tribune permits Schlesinger the privilege, unusual in that paper, of employing the same smear technique that is used by the communists and their fellow-travelers in referring to Samuel B. Pettengill, of Indiana, a former congressman and a widely respected American patriot, as a "wild-eyed, reactionary rabble-rouser," which he is none of. He is a dignified, intelligent, well-mannered publicist and debater appealing to a public markedly above the level of the "rabble," and if he is "reactionary" he reacts only against communism, fascism and other un-American programs.

Othman On Anything

WASHINGTON —(UP)— Never tell a lady that her petticoat is showing. She knows it, poor gal. Tug as she will, the durn thing lags again and there she is with her slip in the open some more.

This is final. I have spent the day with three officials (only one of whose slips was dipping below the danger mark) of the American Home Economics association. They have told me true. The ladies of the nation are weary of being played for suckers and, or, being reminded about the errant undergear.

"The manufacturers have told us they'd be delighted to make things the way we want them made," said Miss Lelia Massey, the executive secretary. "Now we're telling 'em."

They certainly are. The 20,000 members, all graduate home economists, are making surveys on assorted things that plague womankind, like lingerie that stretches, dresses that don't (the blame things rip), bread that tastes like plywood, thick steaks that turn out bone, and stew pans which develop leaks.

Miss Massey and her associates at headquarters, Mrs. Margaret Thompson and Mrs. Zelta Rodenwald (I refuse to say which one bore a slippery slip), told me about the siren songs of the bakers, the butcher, and the dressmakers. The boys have promised to deliver the goods the way the ladies want it. The ladies are waiting, but not patiently.

* * *

AS OF NOW they're working on those slips (some good, but many sleazy, said Miss Massey), sweaters, winter coats, refrigerators, cooking utensils, and milk. They have completed their studies on house dresses, bread, and meat. They know what they want.

The meat first. The women of America are tired of buying meat and getting gristle. They insist that the butchers adopt some standards on how much bone goes with every steak. The ladies said when they want a small roast, they want it, without the back talk. They are caught up on compromising on big roasts. They also want thick steaks to be no thicker in Maine than in California and, of course, vice-versa.

The bread situation perhaps is not so critical. About half the ladies said they had no complaints. The other half said the bakers ought to keep on pumping vitamins into each loaf and be forced to label the nutritional content as well as net weight. Also, gents in the white aprons, the ladies want bread that doesn't go moldy.

As for dresses, Miss Massey said the little number she had on was an example. It cost like sin, but the second time out the lining ripped. Dressmakers, the time has come. Put up or shut up.

Nearly 12,000 women contributed to what is wrong with house dresses. Not one of them, gentlemen, was satisfied. Multiply that by ten million like some public opinion pollsters do and what do you get? A lot of frightened dress manufacturers. Or so the ladies hope.

G. Lyman Moore, secretary of the local camp, said today that it is planned to have the junior members meet once a month on the second Monday night. Local junior director is Miss Lila McFarland. Adult members are welcome to attend the organization meeting, Moore said.

A short program will be presented. Refreshments will be served.

WINTER PUSHES SUPER-HIGHWAY PLAN IN OHIO

Proposes to Pay For Route By Issuing Bonds, Collecting Tolls to Retire Them.

State Sen. Ralph A. Winter, of Lodi, representing the 27th-29th district which includes Richland county, today proposed construction of a privately-financed 239-mile superhighway across Ohio.

Winter said he would introduce a bill in the next legislature which would provide that the highway would become the property of the state after bonds issued to finance it were retired.

He told the Associated Press that the bonds would be sold to the public and retired through tolls paid by superhighway users in much the same manner as Ohio's toll bridge are operated.

Calls It Best Plan.

"This is the best way I know for Ohio to obtain highways suitable for present-day traffic needs without cost to taxpayers," Winter said.

Under his proposal, a 239-mile, four lane highway would be constructed across northern Ohio from the Pennsylvania border to Indiana. It eventually would be linked with the Pennsylvania turnpike, which now ends just east of Pittsburgh.

Cost of the super-highway was estimated at $152,280,000 in a preliminary survey by the J. E. Greiner company, of Baltimore, Md., consulting engineers for the Pennsylvania turnpike.

The engineering firm estimated that an average of 12,000 vehicles would use the Ohio route daily, nearly twice the number necessary to pay off the bonds in 30 years and leave the road toll-free

Proposes Commission.

Winter's proposal calls for creation of a five-member Ohio Turnpike commission to supervise issuance of the bonds and to operate the super-highway, which would cross the state near Youngstown, Akron, Cleveland and Toledo.

The state highway director would be an ex-officio member of the commission and the others would be appointed by the governor for ten-year terms, subject to senate approval. Salaries would be $5,000 annually plus expenses to be paid out of road tolls.

Winter said the bonds would be tax-free in Ohio.

A recently organized Ohio turnpike committee, composed of engineers, contractors, manufacturers and truckers, was told by a Greiner company representative that the northern turnpike could be built in three years.

The committee, headed by Dr. William P. Edmund of Independence, advocates construction of about 1,000 miles of super-highways to criss cross the state.

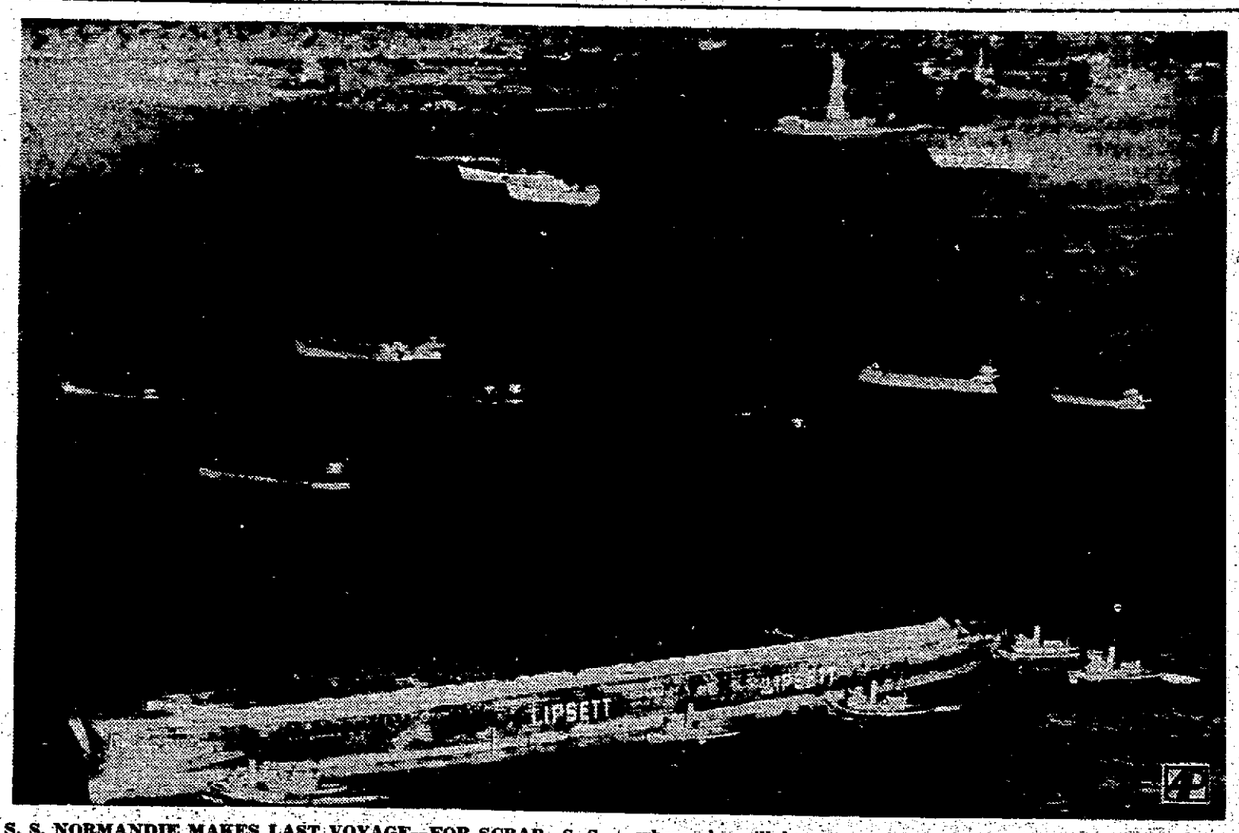
REPUBLICAN SOLON URGES HIGH TAXES

WASHINGTON —(AP)— A Republican senator, Joseph H. Ball of Minnesota, has spoken for high taxes.

Addressing the National Press club, Ball conceded he was "a little off the reservation." Republican leaders have called for tax reductions in 1947.

"The soundest kind of economics," said Ball, "would dictate keeping taxes high in boom times, reducing them in bad times."

He said that "the major part, if not all" of any government surplus should be used, not for tax cuts, but to reduce the federal debt, for "if we don't reduce it now, I don't know when we ever can."



S. S. NORMANDIE MAKES LAST VOYAGE—FOR SCRAP—S. S. Normandie, one-time pride of the French merchant fleet, makes her last voyage at New York—across the Narrows, in the entrance to New York harbor, from Brooklyn, N. Y., to Port Newark, N. J., where she will be cut up for scrap. Her once powerful engines stilled, a dozen tugs are pulling and pushing the sea giant through the crowded harbor. The name of the ship-breaking firm which will demolish the Normandie, wrecked by a disastrous fire nearly four years ago, is painted on side of the scarred hull.(—AP Photo)

RUSSIAN ARMY UNITS MOVING

BERLIN—(AP)—Official American and informed German sources here said today that Soviet troops were engaged in large-scale redeployment movements in the Russian occupation zone of Germany.

Maj. Gen. Frank A. Keating, acting American deputy military governor, said Marshal Vassily D. Sokolovsky, Russian commander in chief in Germany, had informed American commanders the troop movements were of such a scale as to utilize most of the Soviet zone's transportation facilities.

"We believe that the Russians are moving some of their troops back to Russia as Marshal Sokolovsky informed Gen. Joseph T. McNarney," Keating said.

McNarney told reporters at a recent press conference that Sokolovsky had informed him the troop movement would continue for some weeks and that because of demands upon transport, it would be impossible for the Russians to admit any American correspondents for a tour of their zone until the new year.

A German correspondent recently returned from Thuringia, said the Soviet troop movement there was "something terrific."

"However," he added, "the Russians haven't announced anything officially so nobody knows just what the new dispositions will be."

There was no authoritative information here on whether Russian deployment or demobilization of any considerable extent was occurring in territories east of Germany.

Up and Down The Street

GAS LAMP DAYS—

A relic of the days of plush upholstering, bustles, and horse-drawn carriages bobbed up again last night—on the marquee of the Ohio theater. A gasoline lantern, swinging in the wind, supplemented the feeble light of a 60-watt bulb on the marquee—and it made a lot of difference in the illumination, too. The recent brownout order to conserve fuel limits theater marquee lighting to 60 watts.

ICY STREETS AGAIN—

Even though weather and highway conditions throughout the Mansfield area yesterday were favorable to a Thanksgiving day motor trip, one accident in the city early yesterday, which resulted in broken white way light, was reported due to icy street. THEY HAVE A GOAL—

Members of Boy Scout Troop 4 turned businessmen today. Up shortly after dawn, they began canvassing the neighborhood from Newman street to Central avenue, and from Orange to Spring streets for wastepaper, old newspapers and magazines. Some time ago the boys began thinking about athletic equipment for their meeting room on the second floor of the No. 4 fire station. The only way to raise the money for the equipment, they reasoned, was to work for it.

OFFICIALS FEAR SABOTAGE PLAN BY COMMUNISTS

Informants Reveal Plot For Systematic Destruction in Southern Area.

SEOUL—(INS)—A wave of fires and railroad wrecks throughout southern Korea brought forth the expressed belief by U. S. Army spokesmen today that large-scale sabotage planned by radical elements has now been launched.

A spokesman for the U. S. 24th Corps headquarters said "authorities are growing increasingly suspicious" that the Communist November operations plan, which informants recently disclosed to U. S. occupation officials, is now underway.

This belief, he indicated, was strengthened by two recent wrecks. In one of the wrecks 54 were killed. Last Saturday, on the outskirts of Seoul, another wreck occurred, killing an unnamed American soldier, two Korean passengers and the engine crew.

Fire destroyed a hospital wing at Pusan two weeks ago, while at Seoul major fires have broken out during the past three nights.

A Thanksgiving night blaze damaged a Korean warehouse storing refugee supplies. The night before flames razed three schools, a campus hospital and four faculty residences in the heart of Seoul, threatened a large section of the capital's business center.

Three nights ago flames destroyed an unoccupied apartment house being readied for dependent families of American occupation troops.

An army spokesman said the school fire was "apparently arson" and pointed out investigators discovered the blaze started in the center of the school building and in a corner of the building simultaneously.

Loss in the school fire alone was estimated at more than 38 million yen. This figure did not cover the loss of two of the Korean education system's best physics and chemistry laboratories containing modern instruments and equipment.

Last month occupation authorities disclosed they had come into possession of secret plans fostered by radical elements and calling for systematic sabotage of southern Korea.

Tito Strengthens Frontier Forces

ATHENS —(AP)— Amid speculation that the leftist bands may be attempting to cut off western Macedonia from Salonika, the Greek government studied an official Yugoslav announcement yesterday that Marshal Tito was strengthening his forces on the Greek frontier.

The Greek foreign ministry, announcing receipt of the Belgrade declaration, said the Yugoslav government had given as the reason for the strengthening of border garrisons the flight to Yugoslavia of large numbers of Greeks "seeking refuge from terror" in northern Greece.
